Type of membership

Personal Vessel

I, the applicant, understand that this membership covers the first two hours of any non emergency call in the specified areas of coverage. The cost of the fuel and or new batteries is not included in the membership fee. It is understood that all cases will be handled on a priority basis.

I, the applicant, acknowledge that in the event services are required beyond the limit of the service area of Marine Towing and Salvage, M-TAS reserves the right to decline service to the member.

It is understood that Marine Towing and Salvage and its licensees', organizations, agents or employees will not be held responsible for property damage or personal injuries sustained during any waiting period due to extreme weather conditions or mechanical and physical restrictions beyond human control. It is also understood that Marine Towing and Salvage or its licensees', organizations, agents or employees will not be held responsible for damage or injuries occurring to members' vessels or passengers while engaged in any service rendered to its members. Members assume all risks of towing and all other services required in any case other than gross negligence of Marine Towing and Salvage. In the event of any injury to persons aboard ship or otherwise, or any occurrences that threaten the safety of passengers or vessel, the member should immediately contact the Canadian Coast Guard and request emergency assistance. Marine Towing and Salvage reserves the right to terminate or limit this membership for any abuse. The applicant hereby indemnifies and holds harmless Marine Towing and Salvage from any and all claims, demands and suits, including any defense costs related thereto.

It is understood that Membership is not a substitute for adequate Hull Insurance and Salvage and Recovery Work is not covered by Membership dues. Salvage awards and recovery fees are normally covered by hull insurance and are billed accordingly.
